

Maine Pines USTA

National Men's 35 Indoor Championship

May 16 - May 19, 2024

USTA Event

Maine Pines Racquet & Fitness will be hosting the USTA National Men's 35 Indoor Tennis Championships, May 16 - May 19, 2024. This is the only national USTA tournament to be held in Maine this year, and one of only three in the nation. Participants in this tournament are among the top players in the nation, and players will travel from across the country to take part.

Sponsorship

We are pleased to announce the 2024 Sponsorship Packages, with many great benefits. These packages will give your business excellent publicity and a chance to showcase your products or services.

This is a first-come, first-served arrangement with priority assigned by sponsorship level – the earlier you commit, the more publicity you will receive. Media recognition, depending on the level of sponsorship, will include:

- Public relations mention (press release and other event media coverage).
- Sponsor signage displayed during and after the tournament.
- Material logo placement on the official USTA event magazine, event shirts, marketing handouts, flyers, and more.
- Year-round marketing: Sponsor Banner, Facebook, e-mail blasts.

Maine Pines Racquet & Fitness has six indoor courts and offers lessons and league play for junior players and adults of all levels. In addition, the club features top-of-the-line facilities and classes including yoga, spinning, and aerobics. Maine Pines is located one mile south on Route 123 at 120 Harpswell Road, Brunswick. 207-729-8433.

Wimbledon, Davis Cup veteran is headed to Brunswick

Rick Leach, who totaled nine Grand Slam titles in men's or mixed doubles; will compete.

By GLENN JORDAN,
Staff Writer

Rick Leach hoisted a championship trophy at Wimbledon. He did likewise at the U.S. Open.

So what's he doing at a tennis tour-namment in Brunswick this weekend? "I've never been to Maine," he said from his home in California. "I've always wanted to go."

Now 50, Leach will play singles and his specialty, doubles, at the USTA national men's 35 indoor championship Friday through Sunday at Maine Pines Racquet and Fitness.

This has been an annual event in Brunswick, but tournament director

Andrea Georgian said a few tweaks may have attracted a more diverse field that includes Leach along with Mario Perez, 39, of Mexico, Rickard Strom, 40, of Sweden and Paulo Barros, 36, of Brazil

First, the tournament was shortened from its previous Friday-to-Tuesday format. Second, modest prize money ($300 to the winner and $200 to the runner-up) was added.

It remains one of the three men's national tournaments in the 35-and-over age bracket. The others are in Arizona and Florida.

Eleven doubles teams and 20 singles players make up the field.

"It's double what it was last year," Georgian said.

Spectators are welcome. There is no charge for admission.

"Our crowd has been varied," she said. "It's been smaller in the past, but this year we've been advertising a lot and I feel that we're going to have a large number of people coming."

Leach is seeded fifth in the singles field with Barros first, Strom fourth and Perez sixth. Michael Halpern, 36, of Boca Raton, Florida, is seeded second and R.D. Ferman, 38, of New York City is third.

Leach will play doubles alongside Lorne Abony, 45, an entrepreneur and owner of the Austin (Texas) Aces, the World Team Tennis franchise that Leach coaches.

Playing with Robert Kendrick a year ago at Maine Pines, Abony won the USTA national men's 35 doubles title.

"Robert couldn't play this year so I got in," Leach said. "Lorne and I were playing a tournament in Austin a few weeks ago and he mentioned it. It seemed like a good excuse to go to Maine in the summer and have some fun."

Leach played on the professional tour from 1987 to 2005 and won 46 ATP doubles championships.

He won five Grand Slams (including three Australian Opens) in men's doubles and four in mixed doubles.

Partnering with Jim Pugh, Leach also helped the United States win the 1990 Davis Cup with a championship-clinching victory over Pat Cash and John Fitzgerald of Australia.

The tournament also includes local players such as former Betty Blakeman Memorial champions Brian Powell of Kennebunkport and Ben Cox, who teaches in Cumberland.

Play begins at 9 a.m. Friday and continues through Sunday, with time out for a lobster bake Saturday night at Thomas Point Beach for players and their families.

"A very famous lobster bake, too," Leach said. "I've heard the tournament director puts on a great event."
